

Mayor Davis Reflects on Her Years in Political Action

by Jonathan Taylor

The Maryland Municipal League (MML) represents and advances the interests of 157 municipal governments and two special taxing districts in the state. This summer the league named a new president: Greenbelt's own Mayor Judith F. Davis.

As MML president, Davis will chair meetings of a 31-member board of directors and the organization's fall and summer conferences. "Quite a bit," she says of the work but "it's not just chairing the conferences."

MML municipalities are organized into nine geographic regions (e.g. Eastern Shore Counties) and seven functionally-focused departments (e.g. Code Enforcement and Zoning Officials). As president, Davis plans to attend as many regional and departmental meetings as she can. She also plans to lobby the state legislature when it takes up legislation the MML has prioritized, attending hearings and giving testimony as needed.

She also expects to help evaluate the MML executive director, whose contract expires at the end of this year.

Judith Davis addresses the Maryland Municipal League.

"It's going to keep me very busy because I'm also doing the mayor stuff as well," she said.

Yet Davis seems confident she will be able to strike the right balance between the demands of the MML and the City of Greenbelt.

Film Festival to Honor 75th; Will Feature Local Filmmakers

by Susan Gervasi

Greenbelt's Utopia Film Festival 2012 – to run from October 13 through 21 – will honor the city's 75th anniversary, highlight local filmmakers, feature Channel 20's iconic Count Gore De Vol and show more than 50 independent films from around the world.

Venues will include the Greenbelt Arts Center, Greenbelt Municipal Building, the P&G Old Greenbelt Theatre and the Academy Theaters at Beltway Plaza Mall.

Utopia – a project of Greenbelt Access Television (GATE) – launches on Saturday, October 13 at 11 a.m. with free screenings of "Greenbelt: A Model Community," "The City" and "Home: The Langston Terrace Dwellings" in the P&G Theatre.

"The City" is a New Deal era documentary designed to promote the resettlement of city-dwellers from blighted urban areas to such suburban "green towns" as Greenhills, Ohio, Greendale, Wisc., and, of course, Greenbelt.

Like Greenbelt, Washington, D.C.'s Langston Terrace was a New Deal community aimed at promoting health and social harmony. But in the segregated 1930s, Greenbelt was for whites only and Langston Terrace was for blacks.

In "Home: The Langston Terrace Dwellings," Takoma Park filmmaker Barr Weissman explores the history of that community, whose architectural features and idealistic social programs mirrored those in Greenbelt. Weissman and historian David Taft Terry will be at the screening to discuss the film and segregation in the 1930s.

Morrison Film

Another free program on Sunday, October 21 at 11 a.m. at the Old Greenbelt Theatre includes a long-suppressed 1932 FBI documentary featuring former Greenbelt councilmember and mayor Allen Morrison. "How Fred Burke was Captured in 1931" tells the story of gangster Al Capone's crony Burke, who was wanted for murder and hiding out in a small Missouri town when locals caught onto his true identity. Among them was businessman Allen Morrison, who helped the FBI arrest Burke.

The government then made a film about the episode which – out of fear of gangster reprisals – was suppressed for 75 years. Morrison's son Bill, a lifelong Greenbelt resident, will be at the screening to answer questions.

The same free program will See FILM FESTIVAL, page 12

Election 2012

Voters to Determine Fate of Maryland Congressional Redistricting Plan

by Thomas X. White

For the upcoming November 6 General Election, Marylanders will be voting on seven statewide questions on the ballot. Questions 1, 2 and 3 are relatively non-controversial Constitutional Amendments that were discussed and described in the September 27 issue.

Questions 4, 5, 6 and 7 are more controversial, addressing in-state tuition rates for undocumented immigrants; congressional redistricting; civil marriages and the expansion of commercial gambling. The first three of these are referendum petitions challenging laws supported by the governor and adopted by the Maryland General Assembly during the 2012 legislative session and two subsequent special sessions. These ballot questions are the first laws petitioned to referendum since 1992. Question 7 on gambling does not challenge existing law.

This article focuses on Question 5, which challenges the redistricting plan establishing the boundaries for Maryland's eight U.S. Congressional Districts as required every decade following the U.S. Census.

During the remaining four weeks before the election, articles covering the other referendum questions will appear in this newspaper.

For Question 5 the ballot wording is sparse, simply stating that the redistricting plan "Establishes the boundaries for the state's eight U.S. Congressional Districts based upon recent census figures, as required by the United States Constitution." The choice for the voters will be to vote "For" if they approve of the adopted plan or "Against" if they disapprove.

The choice is the same for all seven statewide questions on the ballot but the others had a bit more clarifying language describing the questions to be voted on.

The Process

Following the 2010 decennial U.S. Census, Governor Martin O'Malley's Advisory Commission on Redistricting released a proposed redistricting map. After hearings, the governor slightly modified the proposed plan and submitted it to the legislature.

The map then was modified by the legislature and adopted as emergency legislation with a three-fifths majority of the predominately Democrat General Assembly. The plan was signed by the governor on October 20.

City Staff Says Sector Plan Represents "Disconnect with Greenbelt's History"

by Thomas X. White

At a City Council/Advisory Planning Board (APB) worksession on the Preliminary Greenbelt Metro Area and MD 193 Corridor Sector Plan and Proposed Sectional Map Amendment (Sector Plan) held on September 26, Greenbelt's Director of Planning and Community Development Celia Craze and Assistant Director Terry Hruby provided council with a thorough review of the recently published 426-page Sector Plan document. They urged council not to support the plan until the city's major issues have been adequately addressed. They said "the published document represents a disconnect with Greenbelt's history and vision and does not reflect the best interests of the Greenbelt community." With Silke Pope unable to attend, six members of council were present, along with City Manager Michael McLaughlin and APB Chair George Branyan and members Jeff Lemieux and Matt Johnson.

City staff noted that the Sector Plan, if adopted by the county, would guide development in Greenbelt for the foreseeable future. They identified 10 key recommendations for council:

- Oppose the exemption of Beltway Plaza Shopping Center from the District Development Overlay Zone (DDOZ).
- Oppose the rezoning of Beltway Plaza Shopping Center from the Commercial Shopping Center (C-S-C) zone to Mixed Use Infill

(M-U-I) zone.

While the DDOZ approach was applied to most other development in Greenbelt West, Beltway Plaza is exempted in the Sector Plan. This was a major concern of the staff. City staff emphasized that the rezoning to M-U-I without applying the DDOZ overlay would repeat the error made on the 2001 Sector Plan and allow "development as usual" without the critical standards, rules and guidelines to guide future development on the site.

- The authors of the Sector Plan conducted the socio-economic and housing analysis (based) on a trade area three miles around Greenbelt (25,800 dwelling units in the trade area; fewer than 4,000 dwelling units in the study area).

- There is no justification for the redevelopment proposed for the Greenway Center/Maryland Trade Center area ("New Urbanism" over-emphasized throughout the Plan).

- Given the redevelopments proposed for the Greenway Center and Maryland Trade Center area there is concern that there is no DDOZ overlay zone.

- The so-called diverging diamond approach proposed for the Rte. 193/Rte. 201 interchange should be opposed.

- The plan supports the widening of Kenilworth Avenue, Hanover Parkway south of Hanover

Help Us Celebrate Our 75th Anniversary

The Greenbelt News Review is celebrating its 75th Anniversary this year. For 75 years the Greenbelt News Review’s all volunteer staff has published a weekly newspaper that has never missed a publication date. For 75 years the Greenbelt News Review has been a locally produced, independent, cooperative enterprise, delivering papers to over 11,000 homes and businesses free of charge.

The newspaper is the lifeblood of the community, capturing in print and photography the stories of Greenbelt residents, celebrating the city’s vibrant history and culture, providing information and advertising of events critical to the economic health of the community. The Greenbelt News Review is a major forum for communicating news that affects the lives of the city’s 25,000 residents and 750 businesses.

We invite you, our readers, to join us in celebrating the Greenbelt News Review’s 75th anniversary by advertising in the November 15 special anniversary issue. The deadline is October 15. Payment is requested at the time the ad is submitted. Checks should be mailed to the address listed below.

The following methods may be used to submit ads: In person, Mondays, 2 to 4 p.m., Tuesdays, 2 to 4 p.m. or 8 to 10 p.m., Greenbelt News Review office at 15 Crescent Road, by email newsreview@verizon.net or by mail to Greenbelt News Review, 15 Crescent Road, Suite 100, Greenbelt, MD 20770.

Consider placing an ad in the Greenbelt News Review’s special anniversary issue. You will be recognizing the important role this community newspaper plays in the city’s past, present and future.

Letters to the Editor

Cabaret Show Sound Handled Superbly

What a refreshing, rewarding and informative listening experience we had at Greenbelt’s 75th Anniversary Cabaret events on Sundays, September 23 and 30. Numerous performers sang their hearts out within the large gymnasium, with hundreds in the audience, with nary an audio mishap such as a big bang from a dropped microphone, a feedback screech or a speaker pop or boom from a bad connection. And that was because no electronic sound instrumentation was present, aside from that which was judiciously used with the video clips.

As one with slight hearing loss, I was able to hear all spoken and sung material clearly – without microphones and amplification, within a large space with nice and helpful curtains but not enough to insure the best acoustics. Audio instrumentation could not have improved the experience in any way – it would only have introduced a listening burden comprised of uncontrollable loudness, bangs, distortions and drop-outs, while at the same time removing authenticity, intelligibility, intelligence, nuance, subtlety, contrast, beauty, sensitivity, acumen and comfort.

While audio instrumentation is often effectively used in well-financed movies and pricey venues, we cannot count on having both technical expertise and high quality audio instrumentation available for most of our public events. Thus it behooves singers and speakers to train their voices so that they will not need electronics in order to be heard and enjoyed.

The persons who worked hard to make this happen well deserve much credit for unusually well organized and performed programs. Surely these will be “sounds to remember” at least until Greenbelt’s 100th Anniversary celebration.

Marriage Equality Forum Persuasive

A well organized forum at the Community Church was presented by New Ways Ministry on Saturday. The thorough analysis of the spiritual, moral and legal aspects of marriage equality was persuasive. My support for Proposition 6 was strengthened with an added impetus for further advocacy.

And Frank DeBernardo – what a great moderator.

We Do Care!

This is in response to the Noisier than Necessary letter to the editor from James Thompson on September 20.

The New Deal Café strives to be a good neighbor. We agree that excessive noise can and does cause damage to hearing and for that reason our festivals and indoor music events are now tested for noise levels. Such was the case during the Blues Festival on September 15. Our sound technicians took readings at several locations around Roosevelt Center and beyond, including near Crescent Apartments. We have worked to ensure that we are at conversational levels at all residential areas.

We are concerned about Mr. Thompson’s reported experience

Clarification

In relation to last week’s article on the Prince George’s County ballot questions, Greenbelt’s County Councilmember Ingrid Turner advises that Question B, which would modify procedures for awarding multi-year contracts, would, if approved, enable the county council to make such contract awards by resolution rather than requiring a bill. While enactment of either a bill or a resolution requires first holding a public hearing, the resolution requirements are simpler and require less advertising prior to enactment, she said.

Solar & Green Home Tour Is this Weekend

Six Greenbelt homeowners are opening their homes Sunday for the annual Washington Area Tour of Solar & Green Homes held on Saturday and Sunday, October 6 and 7 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The homes here feature solar electricity, solar water heating, passive solar space heating and cooling and solar cooking.

In addition to showing off their solar energy systems, Greenbelt homeowners will explain a host of innovative sustainable features that include a geothermal heating and cooling system, ductless heat pumps, home energy monitoring systems, Solatube tubular skylights, edible landscaping, dual-flush toilets, LED lighting and rain barrels.

There is a nominal fee for the brochure listing the addresses of 70 solar homes on the area-wide tour (free for students), along with the day each home is open. It is available at the Co-op Supermarket and for download without charge at www.solartour.org.

Candidates Sought For Co-op Board

The Greenbelt Consumer Co-operative (GCC) is seeking candidates willing to run for election to its board of directors. The election will be held at the Co-op Annual Meeting Saturday, November 3 at 11 a.m. in the gymnasium at the Greenbelt Community Center.

Two board members will be elected to serve three-year terms. One incumbent – Joe Timer – is running for re-election. Co-op members interested in serving as directors are asked to contact the Nominations & Elections Committee (Barbara Ford, 301-441-8241; Linda Ivy, 301-657-0587; or Marsha Voigt, 301-345-7631). Nomination forms are available at the Co-op Service office.

To be considered, a member must: (1) have a minimum of $100 in their member capital account and (2) submit both a brief bio and the completed nomination form by October 20. GCC does not accept nominations at the annual meeting.

Golden Age Club

By Bunny Fitzgerald

The Golden Age Club had a successful yard sale/bake sale on Saturday, September 29. Mother Nature smiled on it and everyone enjoyed greeting friends and dogs and raising money for the club.

The speaker on October 10 will be Thomas Downs whose topic will be “Wills and Estate Planning.”

We’re glad that Paul Rall and Shirley Ann Egenreider are feeling better and able to be out and about.

Enjoy this fall weather. Stay healthy and be happy and attend Golden Age Club meetings.

Cowan and Hass Hold Paint Branch Recital

On Sunday, October 14 at 4 p.m. Greenbelt singers Ole Hass and Ingrid Cowan will offer a recital at Paint Branch Unitarian Universalist Church in Adelphi with pianist Susan Ricci. The concert is a repeat performance of their program, “Saints, Sinners and Sweethearts.”

The performance will include songs and duets from four centuries in an all-English language celebration, finding the serene and the silly in works of Henry Purcell and Gilbert and Sullivan, Benjamin Britten and George Gershwin, Samuel Barber and William Bolcom where art song, operetta and cabaret meet. A special feature will be the gripping presentation of Benjamin Britten’s “Abraham and Isaac,” for which Britten edited a text from medieval Chester miracle plays that were used to teach stories of the Bible dramatically.

with the Café’s management as being unresponsive and uncaring. After reading his letter, the Café reached out to both Mr. Thompson and Mr. Bill Norwood, and in our conversation with Mr. Thompson, we discovered that the events he referred to actually took place many years ago. It is not clear exactly what happened at that time but, regardless, they do not reflect the views and values of the current management or employees of the Café.

Mr. Thompson indicated that he appreciated our reaching out to him and for the efforts the Café is making to start a dialogue. We recognize that any public event of significant size will inevitably have some impact on the surrounding community but we believe that overall the two music festivals that the New Deal Café holds each year (the Crazy Quilt and the Blues Festival) have made a positive contribution to the Greenbelt community and additionally are a benefit to merchants in Roosevelt Center.

Because this concern has been expressed and we take it seriously, we will continue to discuss the control of noise levels and the overall staging of our events in the center with the city.

The Café supports the efforts of Mr. Thompson and Mr. Norwood in helping local venues keep music and other related sounds to reasonable levels. The New Deal Café and Friends of New Deal Café Arts feel that we, Mr. Norwood, Mr. Thompson, the City of Greenbelt and other event organizers, can work together to address this important aural health issue.

GHI Float Wins “Most Humorous”
in Labor Day Festival Parade

By Catherine McHugh

One highlight of the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Parade was GHI’s prize-winning float. GHI won the “Most Humorous” trophy for its entry featuring GHI’s own One-Minute Players performing a play written and directed by GHI Board member Bill Jones.

Bill undertook the float assignment when he was acting Board president, and came up with the idea of telling the history of Greenbelt Homes in a three-act play lasting 56 seconds. The cast included actress Sarah Cartmill of Silver Spring, MD, as Eleanor Roosevelt, GHI Board Treasurer Chuck Hess as Franklin Roosevelt, and GHI Board member and former president Tokey Boswell as a soldier.

Act 1, set in 1937, began with building the model town of Greenbelt, which created jobs during the Depression. In Act 2, set in 1941, Greenbelt grew with the construction of 1,000 new homes for military families. The Act 3 finale, set in 1952, told of the transition to cooperative housing owned by the residents. The play was performed 15 times as the float made its way down the parade route on Crescent Road.

GHI’s Labor Day Festival booth also celebrated Greenbelt history by selling lapel pins to commemorate GHI’s 60th Anniversary as a cooperative. If you missed visiting the booth, you can still purchase a lapel pin for $3.00 at GHI’s Annual Member Picnic on Sunday, October 7.

Fall Yard Care Tips

By Matt Berres, GHI Maintenance Director

The weather is getting cooler and the days shorter. Check out these fall garden tips!

- Planting. Cooler weather is perfect for planting grass, bulbs, shrubs, and trees. Look for flowering bulbs on sale at garden shops. Don’t forget those fall blooming flowers such as chrysanthemums and New England asters.
- Pruning. Fall is the right time to trim those lower tree limbs and prune shrubs for better form. Privets, viburnums, forsythias, and many other branching shrubs can benefit from rejuvenating pruning. Remember any tree limbs over eight feet are GHI’s responsibility. Call the GHI maintenance office to schedule elevated pruning work.
- Mulching. A good layer of mulch will help prepare flowerbed areas for the winter and improve soil quality. Free shredded mulch is available at the Northway fields. Or you can simply rake fallen leaves into bed areas. Remember don’t apply mulch more than two to three inches deep.
- Leaf Removal. Using a lawn mower to shred leaves in your lawn area is a great way to remove them while adding valuable organic material that improves the soil. Yard waste can also be composted in your yard. Composting information is available at <http://ghi.coop/content/woodlands-links>

Astronomical Society Holds Star Party

All are invited to join the Astronomical Society of Greenbelt for a free star party Saturday evening, October 6 at the City of Greenbelt Observatory at Northway Fields. In addition to the observatory telescope, several members will share personal telescopes and binoculars for the enjoyment of all. Observing will begin when it is dark enough, probably around 7:30 p.m., although people may begin to set up telescopes earlier if it is clear. Objects to be observed include several nice star clusters and nebula. The star party will be cancelled without notice if it is hopelessly cloudy. Attendees are asked to park in the ballfield lot at the bottom of the hill unless bringing a telescope.

BCWWG Stormwater Bus Tour Is Oct. 14

Sunday, October 14 from 1 to 4 p.m. the Beavercreek Watershed Watch Group (BCWWG) will host a free stormwater bus tour with Assistant Director of Public Works Lesley Riddle to look at the use of stormwater management techniques that are in place at various business centers in Greenbelt. Participants will learn what to look for and what concerns exist with the systems in place. A bus will be used to transport the tour group to different sites in the city. Since seating is limited, RSVPs are needed as soon as possible by emailing susnbarn@earthlink.net. Carpools can form to accommodate additional participants.

The City of Greenbelt has excellent staff and the Maryland Municipal League has excellent staff. So details like putting together remarks or arranging airfare can be taken care of by staff. That makes things a little easier,” she says. “But it also takes tight scheduling and determining what I can and cannot do. For instance I was just at a National League of Cities steering committee meeting in Arkansas which meant that I missed about three or four city functions that required the mayor to be there.” “Well, that’s why we have a mayor pro tem. So Emmett Jordan helped with a bench dedication and gave welcoming remarks to the Recreation Department.”

President Elect

“And as far as MML, if there’s some chapter meeting I can’t attend – because I will not miss an official city council meeting – there is a president elect. The past [MML] president will also fill in to attend meetings. So there’s a support system for the president and the same sort of support system for the mayor.” After her father’s death last summer, she notes, “I was gone for practically a month and staff and council picked up. And that’s good. You need that co-operation. I cannot do it all by myself. That is for sure. Otherwise, they’re going to lock me up!” Ironically, the mayor’s new duties also may lighten the load on the city’s $28,300 “Membership and Training” budget. That budget provides funds for council attendance at external meetings, including MML conferences. “When I attend a National League of Cities conference, any MML conference or MML board retreat, those expenses – are covered by a presidential expense account,” the mayor said. “The city has a limit for the expenses. And there is a limit for MML. Since I’m doing double-duty, it’s going to help the city.”

Benefits

Davis thinks Greenbelters will see benefits from her MML involvement. She sees opportunities to promote the city citing the city’s recent hosting of the MML Board of Directors retreat. She emphasizes the benefits to the city of her relationships with elected officials at higher levels of government. And she takes issue with those who emphasize an exclusively “stay home and listen” approach to the job of councilmember. “Through [local] outreach you hear what your constituents want or need or what they believe about something. But that’s not enough. “You’ve got to get out and find out what other organizations and groups are doing with the same problems. “When you meet elected officials on a different plane through MML – whether it be state, county, or federal – there’s a different level of networking. You will know those officials and how to contact them. It’s not a cold letter or phone call. “So you get known and Greenbelt gets known for its uniqueness. If you just stay at home, the word doesn’t get out like it needs to. “And what do we bring back? We bring back ideas and contacts and sometimes resources. That’s why you go out.”

Big Honor

Davis reflects on the special character of Greenbelt as she recounts her journey to the MML presidency and revealed the skills that have brought her 10 terms on the council and 15 years as mayor. “When I first came to Greenbelt,” she says, “I was newly divorced. I basically had been turned out of my townhouse because they were changing it from rental to condo and I needed a place. I came here –because there was an ad in the paper and it was about a mile and half from where I taught school. “I moved in and I noticed there was a Democratic Club meeting down in the community center of my condominium. I got involved, and someone from the club said, ‘Oh, here’s a live one. Would you like to be on the Labor Day Festival committee?’ “I got involved with that and then somebody said, ‘Why don’t you apply for one of the city committees – Advisory Planning Board?’ I did, and spent a long time with that and with the Labor Day Festival and I was active with the museum. “The philosophy and the attitude of this city just brought me out” Davis says. “If I had stayed in Silver Spring, I wouldn’t have been an active volunteer, or if you help your community, this is the place to do it, because everybody wants you. “It was sort of the same way [in politics]. Somebody said, ‘Why don’t you run for council?’ It’s been a steady progression. At times it’s hard to believe, going from councilmember, to mayor pro tem and then to mayor and now MML. “It is a testament that I want to keep working for the city and help this community. People recognize that I will put in the effort.” Her role, Davis says, “is a way for me to give back to the community.” “Somebody said, ‘Are you going to go for county council or Congress?’ “Nope. I am very happy where I am right now.”

September 24, 10:23 a.m., 9100 block Edmonston Road. Electronics and jewelry were taken.

September 24, 4:17 p.m., 9100 block Springhill Lane. A carpet cleaner was taken.

September 25, 10:09 p.m., 6100 block Breezewood Court. Electronics, jewelry and currency were taken.

Vandalism
September 22, 12:26 a.m., 6000 block Springhill Drive. A window was broken.

September 22, 11:07 p.m., 5800 block Cherrywood Terrace. A window was broken.

September 25, 9:50 p.m., 6000 block Springhill Drive. A window was broken.

Vehicle Crime
Three stolen vehicles were located. A 2003 Chrysler van was recovered in the 7900 block Mandan Road after being stolen from Suitland, with no arrests made. A 2002 Chrysler van taken from the 9100 block Edmonston Court was recovered in the 6100 block of Breezewood Court. No arrests were made. A 2000 Dodge Intrepid reported stolen by the D.C. Metropolitan Police Department was recovered in the 9100 block Springhill Lane. No arrests were made.

One theft from auto was reported when currency and a registration card were taken from a vehicle at Roosevelt Center.

There were two reports of vandalism: 7600 block Hanover Parkway (vehicle door was damaged) and 9000 block Breezewood Terrace (graffiti was found on a car).

The adopted plan was immediately challenged by organizations that found the redrawn congressional districts primarily had been designed to replace Representative Roscoe Bartlett (R-Frederick) with a Democrat in District 6, as well as to assure the safety of Democrats in their districts.

In addition to drawing the lines to add more Democrat voters to Bartlett's District 6, the plan produced an odd District 3 configuration. Some have likened the shape of District 3 to a Rorschach test. The new District 3 leaves its traditional base in northern Baltimore, extends a tentacle to central Maryland, then spreads out in Howard and Montgomery Counties before taking a sharp turn to Anne Arundel County, including Annapolis and environs.

Detractors feel that the new District 3 robs Representative Donna Edwards (D-Prince George's) of a good portion of her base in Montgomery County while benefiting Democrat Rep. John Sarbanes in the redrawn district.

The Challenge
Challenges by opponents of the new plan have focused mainly on legal issues and were unsuccessful at the levels of the Maryland District Court, Circuit Court and the Maryland Court of Appeals. One appeal reached the U.S. Supreme Court, which declined to hear the complaints.

The challengers had to overcome the hurdle that although the Maryland Constitution requires that state legislative districts be contiguous, compact and give due respect for "political boundaries and natural features," no similar provisions apply to U.S. Congressional Districts.

When the legal challenges failed, Marylanders for Coherent and Fair Representation, and other groups, submitted the requisite number of valid signatures to petition the adopted redistricting map to referendum.

Even then the struggle continued when the Maryland Democratic Party challenged the validity of submitted signatures, arguing that a group under the name of MDPetitions.com was used to secure online signatures. That appeal, before the lower court and the Maryland State Court of Appeals, failed and on August 20, just before the deadline for placing language on the ballot, Appeals Court Judge Robert Bell affirmed a lower court ruling that allowed the congressional redistricting map to be challenged on the November ballot.

General Dissatisfaction
Although the challenge efforts appeared to be led by Republican-leaning organizations, overall dissatisfaction with the adopted plan was shared by several nonpartisan organizations, such as the Maryland League of Women Voters (LWV), Maryland Common Cause and civil rights groups. The LWV charged that Democratic State lawmakers had rebuffed criticism and passed a partisan and racially-charged plan.

The Common Cause analysis determined that the new plan moves about 30 percent of Maryland residents into new U.S. Congressional Districts and that most counties in Maryland will be divided by the new maps. The analysis states "Maryland continues to be a classic case of excessive gerrymandering. By definition, gerrymandering is carving up and dividing a state's electoral districts to maximize partisan advantage. Ultimately, this serves self-interested incumbents but not the democratic process nor Marylanders."

The referendum challenge to redistricting will not have any effect on the 2012 elections. If the new Congressional map is approved by the voters, the new districts will apply to the 2014 election cycle. If Maryland voters reject the adopted map, the governor and the Maryland legislature will have to go back to the drawing board and come up with a more acceptable map.

Drive as well as several other road proposals and modifications that are inconsistent with city positions.

- The plan respects the approved Conceptual Site Plan for the Franklin Park community which is not reflective of the direction in which the development is moving.

- The plan does not respect the consensus/agreement reached on Development Guidelines and District Standards contained in the 2001 Sector Plan.

- The plan lacks specificity regarding type, scale, magnitude, justification and impact of the redevelopment proposed for the Greenbelt Road Corridor. Instead of planning for something, it plans for everything.

CCRIC Comments

Representatives of CCRIC (Citizens to Conserve and Restore Indian Creek) and other citizens concerned about water quality issues attended and Lowell Owens presented their position to council. They asked that the city request corrected maps that show the main channel and all perennial flow channels for Indian Creek. CCRIC also expressed concern regarding the potential for private vehicular traffic crossing the wetland to serve future development in the Metro Station area. They believe that any structure should accommodate only public transportation and pedestrians. They asked council for future ordinances to include language precluding private vehicles from crossing the conservation area between the North and South Cores of the Greenbelt Station development.

CCRIC also expressed the view that the mapping of so-called “focus areas” of the plan ignores the full extent of the area previously proposed for stream valley protection. Their concern is that the only area shown on the plan’s map is the 110 acre parcel owned by the state. CCRIC noted that significant wetlands and the main stem of Indian Creek are within an adjacent parcel still under the developer’s ownership. Similarly, they assert that Berwyn Heights Industrial Area includes the natural preservation area associated with the South Core and these features should be fully reflected in the maps that are part of the proposed Sector Plan.

Finally, CCRIC asked for continued council advocacy for immediate compliance with the expected 2017 requirements for storm water management measures in the Sector Plan. CCRIC believes such a position is consistent with Greenbelt's requested certification as a "Sustainable Green City." They asked the city to request changes to the plan reflecting the recent county ordinance requiring environmental site design to control one-inch stormwater retention for a storm lasting 24 hours.

APB Input

Following the worksession on September 26, APB met again on October 1 to further discuss Sector Plan issues and prepare a proposed APB report for consideration at council's October 9 meeting. Attending were George Branyan, chair, and members Keith Chernikoff, Matt Johnson and Jeff Lemieux; and Jaime Fearer of the Planning and Community Development Department.

The APB members agreed that they should not support the Sector Plan, but, for somewhat different reasons than those of the staff. The APB opposition was directed to the transportation elements contained in the proposed plan and the absence of friendlier transportation features discussed during many community workshops. APB noted that such concepts as “road diets,” that would make Greenbelt roadways friendlier to pedestrians and bicyclists, improved streetscapes and “interconnectedness” were given lip service in the document but were not made part of the crucial planning recommendations.

They strongly questioned the workability of the “diverging diamond” approach for reconstructing the MD 193/MD 201 interchange, and were surprised at the amount of road proposed widenings which negated any suggestion of road diets discussed at community workshops.

While the APB was appreciative that the Sector Plan incorporated the Greenbelt Master Plan for pedestrian and bicycle paths, they were disappointed that the plan did not go far enough.

Next Steps

The public hearing on the proposed Sector Plan is scheduled for Tuesday evening October 2 in Upper Marlboro. Nearly all council members are scheduled to testify. Written public comments on the Sector Plan should be submitted by October 17. Council will likely take a formal position on the Sector Plan at its next regular meeting on Tuesday, October 9.

Voting in the November General Election

As the presidential campaign enters its final stretch, Greenbelt residents should be aware of a number of approaching deadlines. Most important is the deadline for registering to vote which is Tuesday, October 16 at 9 p.m.

Voting procedures are largely unchanged, except that registering to vote online is now possible and early voting will now be available on a Sunday.

To register to vote in Prince George's County requires being a U.S. citizen, a resident of Prince George's County and at least 18 years old by Election Day, Tuesday, November 6. One cannot be under guardianship for mental disability. Ex-offenders are eligible to vote, as long as they have completed their sentences.

Forms

Forms for registering to vote are available locally from the Greenbelt Public Library, the U.S. Post Office and the office of City Clerk Cindy Murray in the Municipal Building. Forms also are available by phone from the county Board of Elections at 301-430-8020 and online from www.princegeorges-county.md.gov/Elections/.

An applicant may return a filled-out form to the county Board of Elections by mail or in person at 16201 Trade Zone Avenue, Suite 108, Upper Marlboro, MD 20774.

Registrants may also fill out and turn in forms in person at Motor Vehicle Administration offices. For Greenbelters, the closest office is located at 11760 Baltimore Ave., Beltsville, with hours 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Registering Online

Registering to vote or updating registration information online requires providing a valid Maryland-issued state ID number or driver's license number. The signature on file with the MVA becomes the official voter registration signature. To register online, go to <https://voterservices.elections.state.md.us>.

Absentee Ballot

Applications for absentee ballots are available at the city clerk's office or online at the website listed above. They must be returned to the county Board of Elections by Tuesday, October 30 at 4:30 p.m. if mailed and by 11:59 p.m. if faxed.

Change of Address

Residents who have moved recently within Prince George's County or from another city in Maryland should send their change of address to the Supervisor of Elections at the address on Trade Zone Avenue given above. They do not need to re-register. New residents who have moved from another state do need to register to vote in Maryland.

A resident who has recently changed his/her address will need to vote at the proper polling place for the new address. Someone who wants to vote but has not yet changed his or her address must vote at the former polling place.

Finding Polling Places

All registered voters should receive a voter's notification card by mail, which will identify their polling place. Newly registered voters should receive this card within two weeks of registration. Anyone who does not receive this card should call the county Board of Elections at 301-430-8020. The information also is available online through www.princegeorgescountymd.gov/

Election. Greenbelt residents will vote either at Greenbelt Community Center, Greenbelt Elementary School, Springhill Lake Elementary School, Turning Point Academy on Good Luck Road or Eleanor Roosevelt High School.

On November 6

Polls on Election Day will be open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. Voters again will use machines that feature touch screen voting. Help may be obtained from election workers, but each voter must cast his or her vote independently. (Demonstrations are available at <http://www.mdvotes.org/demophp>.)

When voters go to the polls on November 6, it is not required that they bring their voter registration cards, but it does speed up the process by which poll workers move voters through the line.

Early Voting

Early voting enables Greenbelters to vote at their convenience at one of six early voting centers in Prince George's County. The closest center to Greenbelt is the College Park Community Center, 5051 Pierce Ave. Centers are open from October 27 to November 1, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and on Sunday, October 28 from noon to 6 p.m.

Other centers include the Wayne K. Curry Sports and Learning Center, 8001 Sheriff Rd., Landover; the Bowie Library, 15210 Annapolis Rd., Bowie; and Upper Marlboro Community Center, 5400 Marlboro Race Track Rd., Upper Marlboro. Centers are open from October 27 to November 1, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and on Sunday, October 28 from noon to 6 p.m.

Explorations Focus On Preparedness

On Friday, October 12 from 1 to 3 p.m. Explorations Unlimited will feature a presentation by Amber Dionne of the Prince George’s Office of Emergency Management. Working to refute the “it won’t happen to me” mentality prepares only for catastrophes she will address a range of day-to-day events that can happen anytime and anywhere – such as house fires, hazardous material spills, gas and water main breaks, power outages and weather problems. People who are ready for these common events will find they’re also ready to deal with larger-scale events and disasters.

Explorations Unlimited is held every Friday from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Greenbelt Community Center, Room 114. All are welcome and questions are encouraged. For information call 301-397-2208.

Greenbelt Park Seeks To Curb Invasives

To help protect Greenbelt Park from harmful invasive plants, on Saturday, October 6 at 11 a.m. join a hands-on nature preservation activity and learn about native and non-native plants at the Sweetgum Picnic Area. Wear appropriate clothing, work gloves and bring lunch or a snack. Participants are urged to bring and wear tick repellant.

The Greenbelt Park entrance is at 6565 Greenbelt Road. For information call 301-344-3944 or <http://www.nps.gov/gree/>.

Discussion Circles Start Next Week

Three new eight-session free discussion circles sponsored by the Greenbelt Climate Action Network and Simplicity Matters Earth Institute begin on Tuesday and Wednesday next week.

Sacred Economics, a view of the current monetary system and keeping pace with changing times meets from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday, October 9 in Room 112 at the Community Center.

A Common Security Club Resilience Circle will discuss the economic meltdown, recession and resilience through localization and sharing within the community starting Tuesday, October 9 from 7 to 9 p.m., also for the first meeting in Room 112 at the Community Center.

On Wednesday, October 10 from 1 to 3 p.m. World on the Edge, about currently collapsing earth systems, existing large-scale solutions and how to take action to solve these problems, will begin in Room 103 at the Community Center.

After the initial meetings, each group will meet weekly or bi-weekly in participants’ homes. Materials for the circles can be read free online or members can pay a small fee to obtain reading copies.

“Every Other Day is Halloween”

include “Green Towns USA,” a documentary about the origins and current state of the three green towns. Along with Greenbelt’s history, Utopia 2012 also will feature locally-made films.

Beginning at noon on Saturday, October 20 two documentaries by local filmmaker Jeff Krulik will screen at the Greenbelt Arts Center: “The Legend of Merv Conn” and “Ernest Borgnine on the Bus.” The former explores the life and times of a Silver Spring accordion virtuoso who taught baby boomers to play the instrument at its height of trendiness. The latter is about a trip Krulik made with the late movie star, who drove his own luxuriously-outfitted bus across the country while recounting memories of his acting career.

Arts Center Series

Other area filmmakers’ works screening Saturday, October 20 at the Arts Center include “Joe’s Record Paradise: The Musical Life of Joe Lee,” about an off-beat offspring of the Lee family of Montgomery County; “Arc of Light” about artist Anna Campbell Bliss; “Anthem,” about the birth of our national anthem in the War of 1812; and “From Here to Obscurity,” a collection of short films produced by the Langley Punks comedy troop.

Another Saturday Arts Center event – with a bow to Halloween – is the documentary “Every Other Day is Halloween,” a profile of Channel 20’s Dick Dyszel, also known as Count Gore De Vol, also known as Captain 20 and also known as Bozo the Clown. The Count will attend and chat with fans after the screening.

“Oxygen for the Ears: Living Jazz” will screen Saturday, October 20 at 10 p.m. in the Municipal Building. While exploring the rich history of jazz in the Washington area, the locally-produced documentary includes interviews with Greenbelt residents and legendary saxophonist Buck Hill.

“Suddenly Zinat”

Independents

Along with Washington-area films, Utopia attracts independent works from throughout the nation and the world. Two this year examine the gritty decline of once-great Detroit, Mich.

Sponsored by the Prince George’s County Peace & Justice Coalition, “After the Factory” compares the economic plight of Detroit with that of Lodz, Poland, and offers possible solutions. It will screen at 6 p.m. on Saturday, October 20 in the Municipal Building with discussion to follow. “Detropia,” another powerful film about Detroit’s rise and fall, will screen at 4 p.m. Sunday, October 21 in the Arts Center.

Films from South Africa, Iran, Italy and the United Kingdom also are part of this year’s festival, including a powerful film that looks at the horrors of the Holocaust.

Screening on Saturday, October 20 at 2 p.m. in the Municipal Building “Kinderblock 66: Return to Buchenwald” documents the journey of four men who return to Buchenwald concentration camp where they had been imprisoned as children and tell how the camp’s communist underground helped them survive.

In contrast, “Opening Our Eyes: Global Stories About the Power of One” focuses on the compassionate side of human nature, documenting individuals who have made caring for others the focus of their own lives. The film is part of a free screening at 2 p.m. Sunday, October 21 at the P&G.

Free Programs

Other free programs will be held in the Municipal Building on Sunday, October 21. At noon a program of 23 videos made by local young people under the guidance of GATE/GAVA (Greenbelt Association for the Visual Arts) animation instructor George Kochell will screen, followed by short films by young people and adults.

“Urban/Rural Landscapes 6,” a selection of experimental films curated by local filmmaker Chris Lynn, will begin at 2 p.m. followed at 4 p.m. by “Does in Progress.” Audience members are invited to critique the two in-progress documentaries with their filmmakers. Documentary consultant and Greenbelt resident Erica Ginsberg will lead this unique program.

The Utopia Film Festival is an all-volunteer project primarily sponsored by GATE,” with assistance from the Maryland Film Office and a number of local sponsors. Film times are subject to change.
